The Infinite Noise

A Bright Sessions Novel

by Lauren Shippen

A stunning, original debut novel based on the wildly popular and award-winning podcast The Bright Sessions.

Caleb Michaels is a sixteen-year-old champion running back. Other than that his life is pretty normal. But when Caleb starts experiencing mood swings that are out of the ordinary for even a teenager, his life moves beyond typical."

Caleb is an Atypical, an individual with enhanced abilities. Which sounds pretty cool except Caleb's ability is extreme empathy - he feels the emotions of everyone around him. Being an empath in high school would be hard enough, but Caleb's life becomes even more complicated when he keeps getting pulled into the emotional orbit of one of his classmates, Adam. Adam's feelings are big and all-consuming, but they fit together with Caleb's feelings in a way that he can't quite understand.

Caleb's therapist, Dr. Bright, encourages Caleb to explore this connection by befriending Adam. As he and Adam grow closer, Caleb learns more about his ability, himself, his therapist - who seems to know a lot more than she lets on - and just how dangerous being an Atypical can be.

"What if the X-Men, instead of becoming superheroes, decided to spend some time in therapy?" (Vox on The Bright Sessions)

The Echo Room

by Parker Peevyhouse

Parker Peevyhouse's The Echo Room is a smart, claustrophobic, speculative young adult thriller with an immersive psychological mystery.

The only thing worse than being locked in is facing what you locked out.

Rett Ward knows how to hide. He's had six years of practice at Walling Home, the state-run boarding school where he learned how to keep his head down to survive.

But when Rett wakes up locked in a small depot with no memory of how he got there, he can't hide. Not from the stranger in the next room. Or from the fact that there's someone else's blood on his jumpsuit.

Worse, every time he tries to escape, he wakes up right back where he started. Same day, same stranger, same bloodstained jumpsuit.

As memories start to surface, Rett realizes that the logo on the walls is familiar, the stranger isn't a stranger, and the blood on his jumpsuit belongs to someone - or something - banging on the door to get in.

Finch helps Maddy care for a menagerie of lost and lonely creatures, including a scared, stray dog who needs a family and home as much as she does. The Good Luck Girls

by Charlotte Nicole Davis

Picture it: the red hot dust of the Scab, the sun-scorched misery of the Bone Road, the eyes of an undead bounty hunter glowing orange in the light of a cold dead moon. Hear the howling of the vengeants and the pounding steps of horses carrying five girls. Five girls who are running for their lives.

The country of Arketta calls them Good Luck Girls - they know their luck is anything but. Sold to a "welcome house" as children, branded with enchanted markings that label them as property. Trapped in a life they would never choose.

But when one of them accidentally murders a man, they risk a dangerous escape and cross country journey, pursued by Arketta's most vicious and powerful forces - both human and inhuman.

The girls' only hope lies in a bedtime story passed from one Good Luck Girl to another, a story that only the youngest or most desperate would ever believe.

It's going to take more than luck for them all to survive.

Set in an alternate Wild West, The Good Luck Girls tells the story of five girls on a dangerous journey to find freedom, justice, and revenge - in a world that wants girls like them to have none of those things.

Catfishing on CatNet

A Novel
by Naomi Kritzer

How much does the internet know about YOU?

A thought-provoking near future YA thriller that could not be more timely as it explores issues of online privacy, artificial intelligence, and the power and perils of social networks.

Because her mom is always on the move, Steph hasn't lived anyplace longer than six months. Her only constant is an online community called CatNet - a social media site where users upload cat pictures - a place she knows she is welcome. What Steph doesn't know is that the admin of the site, CheshireCat, is a sentient A.I.

When a threat from Steph's past catches up to her and CheshireCat's existence is discovered by outsiders, it's up to Steph and her friends, both online and IRL, to save her.

A surprising, heartfelt near-future YA thriller by award-winning author Naomi Kritzer, whose short story "Cat Pictures Please" won the Hugo Award and Locus Award and was a finalist for the Nebula.

These are the best sorts of stories: patient, inventive, expansive, quietly subversive and devilishly sly. I love Kritzer's work, and I always will." - Kelly Barnill, Newbery Medal-winning author of The Girl Who Drank the Moon on Cat Pictures Please and Other Stories

"Kritzer's flawless collection taps deep wells of emotion and wonder. Her work is indisputably speculative, but it's a perfect entry point to the genre for readers who prefer fantastical and futuristic elements to stay more in the background, with human (and robotic) feelings always at the fore. This splendid treat is not to be missed." - Publishers Weekly, starred review, on Cat Pictures Please and Other Stories
